

Watch Still Runs, In Cow's Body

WILLCOX (Ariz.), March 28.
—(INS)—Ranch hand Lencho Hurtado was working on a ranch corral when he took off his coat and vest and left his watch in his vest pocket.

When he went back for them he found they had been mutilated by cattle and he could not find his watch. A day or so later while butchering he found the watch lodged near one of the animal's lungs—still running on time.
