Dear Wah,

I was glad to hear from you and was even surprised to know that you've been transferred to the Marinas Island. I'm sure the Japs won't come out as long as they know you're there. Am I right? Well, how's the food situation there. Are there any towns, etc? See any natives?

I saw the most wonderful news as I was coming to school this morning. Headlines covered half of a page of all these "Extras" saying: - Official - Germany Surrendered! I almost couldn't believe my eyes. Now that the war is over in Europe, we'll use our full force on the Japs and I hope the Japs wouldn't withdraw it any longer. Hitler's and Mussolini's death was sure enlightening to the public for the past week, but "this" surpassed them all.

San Francisco is so crowded now.

You could see all their delegates in their native customs over in a while. Rosalind was fortunate to be picked ^{among ten girls} from her High School from the C.S.T to be member in the Peace Conference. She has been to several plenary sessions. I was almost tempted to take her place because as yet, I haven't been able to obtain any tickets. I still have hopes tho. I got thru my second - mid-term last week. It was sort of tough too. Still have my fingers crossed.

We heard from Roland last week. He's busily touring the towns in the Philippines as they're release to set up as another division just came in.

Bu - ring - ring — the goes the bell to my class. So have to close now. Take care of yourself now.
