

Degrees Cited About Drinking

ELKIN (N. C.). — Policeman S. M. Bullin, testifying in recorder's court, was asked whether the defendant was drunk when arrested.

"No," he officer replied, "he was highly intoxicated."

The court wanted to know the difference.

"A man is highly intoxicated when he's staggering," Bullin explained. "When he's down on the ground, he's drunk."