

Offense Is Profitable

MANCHESTER (N. H.)—John J. Fiske walked into police headquarters expecting to pay a fine for overtime parking—but collected $37 instead.

When the desk officer asked Fiske to produce his driving license, he said he had lost it with his wallet.

“Is this it?” asked the deskman, showing a wallet containing the license and $37.

It was. The wallet had been found and turned over to police. the fine because it was his first

Fiske didn't even have to pay offense.
