

Pedestrians Prove Traffic Hazard

HONG KONG. — In Hong where there are 2,500,000 inhabitants—almost three times the number before the war—the density of population is so great, according to the Chief Constable, “We are forced to regulate the pedestrian traffic to allow the cars to get through.”