from an Army helicopter with a wide-angle lens. It shows feet of cameraman, parts of the helicopter, and the bridge from tower to tower.

167 Prizes Result Of Birthday Gift

OAKLAND, R. I.—Ted Strickland gave his wife a German shepherd dog for her birthday 15 years ago.

Since then she's owned seven German shepherds and has won 167 first prizes, 27 perfect scores and 60 highest single scores in dog obedience shows, although she had never trained one before she got that first dog.

3 Examiner Men Win Awards

Three Examiner photographers were announced yesterday as winners of cash awards in the William Randolph Hearst Annual Photographic Prize Competition for 1954.

Selected by the Committee on Awards and designated to receive special prizes of $100 each were:

Bob Bryant for his exciting photograph from a helicopter showing the U. S. S. Boxer passing beneath the Golden Gate Bridge.

Watt Southward for an action photo of a soccer player leaping more than three feet into the air to avoid two team mates and at the same time deflect the ball from the net with his right hand.

The committee on awards was composed of John R. Hearst, J. D. Gortatowsky, H. G. Kern and Richard Sarno.
