

APART 30 YEARS—Mrs. Hazel A. Aungst of Harrisburg, Pa., and John G. Elicker of 1616 Funston Avenue, who were high school sweethearts thirty years ago, get a marriage license here. They will be married tomorrow at St. Mark's Lutheran Church.

Sweethearts in 1925, Pair to Wed Tomorrow

John G. Elicker of 1616 Funston Avenue had a high school sweetheart in Harrisburg, Pa., thirty years ago.

Although they eventually went their separate ways, they never quite forgot each other.

So after thirty years apart, Elicker and Mrs. Hazel A. Aungst, who is a widow now, were reunited this week and yesterday showed up at San Francisco's marriage license bureau.

Happily they recalled their high school romance back in 1924 and 1925 and also how they began corresponding six years ago.

Then they announced they would be wed at a formal ceremony at 4 p. m. tomorrow at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, 111 O'Farrell Street. There will be a reception later in the church social hall.

Elicker, 46, is a statistician in the vocational rehabilitation and educational division at the Veterans Administration Center, Fourth Street.

His bride to be has been employed in Harrisburg as a legal secretary since the death of her husband.
